

Coming in October and November

Connected Threads: Traditional Quilting to Modern Mayhem

Quilters' Connection is bringing an exciting fall to the Watertown Free Library including sewing and quilting classes at HATCH, a lecture on November 16 and an exhibit and sale of QC member quilts at the library for the month of November. These fall and winter Library programs are funded by a grant from the Watertown Community Foundation to Quilters' Connection and in collaboration with the Watertown Free Library and HATCH. The purpose of the grant is multifold: spreading the word about QC to the Watertown community, exciting new sewers and introducing them to the world of quilting, demonstrating the art of QC members, and reaching out to potential new members.

Kick Off

The program kicks off on October 4 with a class at HATCH. The first class will be all about LOVE - sewing blocks that spell out the word. Taught by QC member Deborah Rocha. This and successive classes will be held on various Monday evenings through January. The second class will be on November 22 so we will give you the listing for the remaining classes in the October Quiltations.

Lecture

"Connected Threads: Traditional Quilting to Modern Mayhem"

Tuesday November 16, 2021

7:00-8:30 pm.

Three members of Quilters' Connection will show the diversity of modern quilting. The speakers will be RoseMary Koch on traditional quilting, Susan V. Polansky on pictorial collage quilts, and Julie Fei-Fan Balzer on playful surface design.

November Exhibition

We will show the fabulous and varied works of QC members in the library gallery on the second floor for the month of November. Quilts can be on sale directly through the members showing if exhibitors choose.

Read other articles in Quiltations to see how you can become involved in these activities.